Llora promises a range of high-quality, modern bags in a range of materials and colours, all designed in Singapore

After two decades running a furniture design business, Indonesian-born, Singapore-based Ling Fu has launched a line of leather bags under the Llora brand. The collection ranges from clutches to shoulder bags, all sporting clean and modern lines. Fu sources the best crocodile skins from Indonesia and Africa, marries them with hardware from Italy, and studs the metallic closures with semi-precious stones from Europe and South-east Asia. www.llora.com
